

Learn Portuguese and Teach English in Rio De Janeiro, Brazil, Summer 2017

"One of the best experiences I could have asked for. Everybody was so much fun and so friendly and to be in Rio during the games was a special experience" Tina C. Nottingham University

Students at UK Independent Schools can now apply now to teach English and study Portuguese for 3 weeks at a prestigious university in Rio de Janeiro. You will be hosted in a student's family, located in safe and central neighbourhood.

Students are being invited to study and live at the 105-year-old Federal Institute of Education, Science and Technology, in central downtown Rio de Janeiro.

The group of up to 20 students can study for up to eight weeks during June and July 2017 in Brazil one year after it became the first ever South American country to host the Olympic and Paralympic Games.

Portuguese classes are provided for 20 hours per week from Monday to Friday and all students are offered the opportunity to put their Portuguese into practice by volunteering in the community.

"Living and studying in Brazil has been so much fun. I have learnt a lot about myself and it is good preparation for University" Kirsty, Year 13 Student

Places are strictly limited, so to avoid disappointment please contact London-Rio City Links without delay. For more info, email your name and school to: rachel@worldcitylinks.net, call 0207 9606348 or visit: www.lrlc.net or www.worldcitylinks.net

- Study/Teach for 20 hours per week
- June and July 2017, back in time for A Level Results
- Live and socialise with students of the same age
- Volunteer in local community

Please contact rachel@worldcitylinks.net www.lrlc.net or www.worldcitylinks.net
Part of World City Links
We are a not for profit organisation

